Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-10, 26-27 drawn to a computer readable media, and a kit comprising the media and instructions classified in class 707, subclass 102.
- II. Claims 11-16, drawn to a method of obtaining information comprising reading and decoding information, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
- III. Claims 17-19, drawn to a method of providing information comprising encoding and providing information, classified in class 702, subclass 20.
- IV. Claims 20-22, drawn to an assay method, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
- V. Claims 23-25, drawn to methods of moving data, classified in class 703, subclass 11.
- VI. Claim 28, drawn to an array, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The products of Inventions I and VI are independent and distinct as they are drawn to differing compositions of matter. A computer readable media is a differing composition than the array of biological or bioinformatic features. Each is searched separately and would pose an undue burden upon the examiner if not restricted.

Each of inventions II-V are independent and distinct as they are drawn to differing methods having differing steps and goals. Each of the methods would be separately classified and separately searched according to their steps. As such, it would pose an undue burden upon the examiner if not restricted.

Art Unit: 1631

The products are independent and distinct from the methods, as the products are either not specifically recited or used in the methods, or they have differing alternate uses. Computer readable media can be used for storing information of any kind and does not require the methods of the other groups. Arrays can be used to perform compound screening, or diagnostics which are independent and distinct uses from the methods of inventions II-V. As such, it would pose an undue burden upon the examiner if not restricted.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Art Unit: 1631

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP 804.01.
